

Unless you intend to replace the weak, Federal Do-not-call list with Wisconsin's robust one, I ask you make no moves to undermine our current protection. I currently don't receive any calls from people trying to sell me stuff, and I like it that way.

My phone number is NOT public domain. When I receive unsolicited calls, then I consider that an invasion of my privacy. Spend less time worrying about Janet Jackson's boobs, and more on actually protecting the people you are supposed to be serving.
